

The Waterloo Daily Courier

Waterloo, Iowa

June 29, 1893

Goings-On In Iowa

The farmer, Riley, who was attacked in Winnebago county last week Monday by five horse traders, who tied his hands behind him and set a ferocious bull dog on him, which literally tore all the flesh from his lower limbs, died after five days of agony and suffering from his wounds. The people in that section and especially the farmers, are very much enraged over the brutal crime, and one and all favor lynching.

Waterloo daily courier. (Waterloo, Iowa) 1890-1909

<http://chroniclingamerica.loc.gov/lccn/sn87058315/>